Briotix Joins with InSite Health to Expand Services and Solutions

An opportunity to broaden our capabilities to our clients and the market place

CENTENNIAL, CO – May 1, 2018

Briotix, LP is pleased to announce our merger with InSite Health, a national industrial sports medicine group. This merger will create a stronger company by combining the strengths of each business to deliver more diverse and technology-driven solutions.

“The strategic fit between our two organizations is exceptional,” says Stephen Brown, CEO of Briotix. “Briotix provides greater strength in delivering diverse industry and technology solutions while InSite brings a stronger focus on industrial applications and workflow processes. This joint approach will expand the type, quality, and solutions we provide to our clients and allow us to be a stronger competitor in the many markets we serve.”

The merged company is committed to improving the delivery of injury prevention and education to the communities we serve using innovative, efficient, and effective programs. Current clients can expect to receive the same great service from the same great people who have earned their confidence and trust in the past, backed in the future by the additional resources of the combined company.
